On the felled trees and windthrows, nearly all the cones were easily reached, and there was probably a personal bias towards the larger sizes on any one tree.

The raid was the culmination of the largest sting organized on Florida's booming anti-aging industry.